storage solutions for performance

Most businesses recognise there is a direct correlation between the quality of your storage solution and your financial performance. Storage solutions are no longer simply a means of organising products and raw materials; they can provide you with a tangible competitive advantage.

You the client are made a simple promise.
Your new solution will save you space, time and money.

This promise is not made out of a misplaced arrogance. It's through many years of hard work and experience that has given us a certain level of expertise that is rare in today's market.

We understand the value our clients place on our service and the importance of their storage systems in their operations. We know that it's an area that has to demonstrate unparalleled levels of health and safety. And we appreciate the need to achieve the perfect balance of capacity, accessibility and available floor space.

That is why every Thistle Systems' installation is unique. It's why we have an extensive manufacturing base to offer an infinite number of products and accessories to develop a solution that delivers results.

Experience & Knowledge

Technical and product knowledge is important to us as are hands on practical solutions.

Thistle Systems has successfully completed over 10,000 storage equipment projects with over 4000 clients operating in over 100 different industry sectors.

This experience has given us a unique insight into the problems and issues being faced by clients and most importantly the techniques and design solutions that make the difference between ordinary storage facilities and truly extraordinary ones.

And although we can point to over 10,000 installations, our commitment to delivering awesome customer service means that we are always looking at new ways in which we can ensure our next project will be even better than the previous one.

Innovative Design

We know that innovative and effective design solutions can only be achieved through firsthand knowledge of the environment and the operations for which they are delivered into.

It is only by understanding the types of products you are storing, the area where they will be stored, the turnover of stock, the number of people accessing the stock at any one time and the demands of the whole operation, that we can develop the right solution for your project.

That's why our project managers always carry out a detailed site survey. That's why we encourage clients to become involved in the design process from the very beginning. And that's why our solutions deliver results time and again.

Whether you are looking to store 2 metre cable drums, replacement parts for wellheads or 4 metre steel pipes, we have the knowledge, the experience and the expertise to ensure the efficiency of your operation is never compromised.

we live and breathe health and safety

Health and Safety as Standard

You've probably heard that safety starts with the very first line that is drawn when designing any storage system, but with the Thistle Systems team, it starts with safety, finishes with safety, and is checked for safety at every stage of the process.

You see we don't just have a health and safety policy, we live and breathe health and safety.

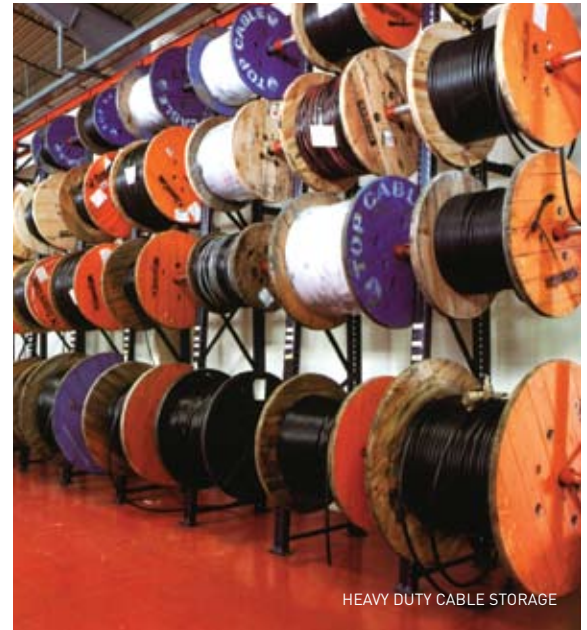

We have a dedicated inhouse Health and Safety manager who works hand in hand with every project manager and our external health and safety auditor. We were also pioneers of a cutting edge interactive Health and Safety Management System that monitors and reports on every aspect of our operations.

But we don't stop there.

Every designer and project manager is fully trained in SEMA and FEM controlled designs. Every project manager is an accredited IOSH member. Every installer is SEIRS certified. Every rack inspector is fully trained to SEMA standards. All hired equipment is tested to meet our exemplary safety standards and all personnel have full training to ensure the right level of certification.

We also have rigorous pre-qualification procedures for all suppliers and partners which are audited on an ongoing basis to ensure our standards of safety, quality, performance and environmental impact are maintained. It's this level of commitment that has seen Thistle Systems continue to set the standards in the storage industry.

An investment in a Thistle Systems project is an investment in safety, value for money and peace of mind and that's guaranteed.

Superior Products

The quality of a product can generally be determined by the level of guarantee. Every Thistle Systems racking and shelving installation comes with a minimum 3 year guarantee and most have a 5 year guarantee.

And when combined with a Thistle Maintenance Package, clients can enjoy the peace of mind from our groundbreaking 'Thistle Lifetime Guarantee.'

So how can we offer such a powerful guarantee.

Quite simply, it comes down to the quality of the steel, components, our advanced manufacturing systems and our revolutionary Thistle Racking DNA File© which is a unique folder with full details on the key project information from the 2D and 3D working drawings, right down to the beam types, beam pitches and loading information.

Researching the best manufactured materials with the best quality, the best lead time, which are most sustainable and deliver best value for money is our passion.

Our latest research surveys tell us that these are key criteria when you, the clients, are considering making an investment in a storage equipment system.

Hassle Free Installations

The installation is one of the most critical stages of the process especially when working in a live, working environment. And with over 10,000 installations behind us, we have developed our own unique project management system that takes care of every aspect.

As you would expect, Health and Safety is paramount and we produce full risk and method statements for every installation regardless of size, as well as providing the right level of PPE, supervision and safety certification.

Toolbox talks are regularly carried out with every member of the installation team and an onsite safety file is produced to record and monitor every process. If we are working in a live environment, we will organise areas to be cordoned off and we can supply our own welfare facilities if required.

And to ensure a quick, seamless programme we organise timed deliveries to suit our clients operations and coordinate them to meet your operational criteria and installation schedule.

We also provide all the SEMA loading signs, product guarantees and offer a FREE rack safety inspection for the first 2 years of your installation.

NO HASSLE SIMPLY STANDARD FROM THISTLE

Of course we are never happy until our clients are delighted, so every installation comes with our unique Zero Defect Guarantee which ensures every installation is perfect before we even ask you to sign your certificate of delight.
